

Your county fees, collected on schedule

When contractors submit septic, pumping, and sampling reports through OnlineRME, your county fees are attached and billed to the contractor monthly. Payment is processed by your county's own merchant. OnlineRME never holds your funds.

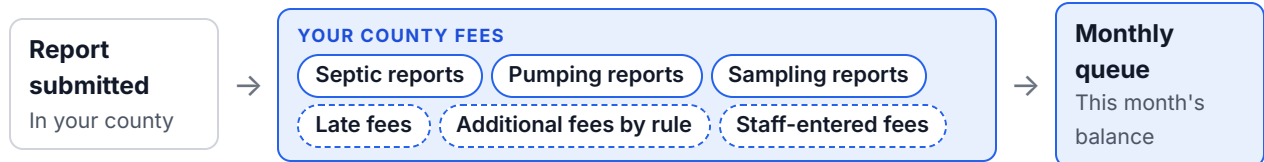

Every county fee, every submission

Firm monthly due date

Processed by your merchant

1 Your county receives work, with every fee attached

Every county fee that applies is attached and added to this month's balance. Late fees and additional fees follow rules your county provides, programmed in by OnlineRME. Staff can also add fees.

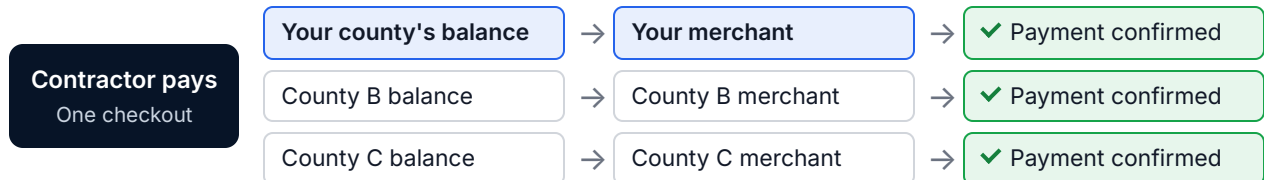

2 Billed monthly, with a firm deadline

Fees for work received during the month become payable on the 1st of the next month and are due by the end of the 25th. Contractors who haven't paid by then are locked out of submitting new work.

3 Each county's fees go to its own merchant

When a contractor pays, OnlineRME sends each county's fees due, one county at a time, to that county's own merchant. Each payment confirms instantly.

4 Your merchant deposits the funds

Your merchant settles funds directly into your county's account on its own schedule. The money never passes through OnlineRME.
